During this interview Beth and Jimmy discuss their InterPlay series of performances that unite multiple venues in a real-time collaborative program that relies upon high-speed video conferencing over the Internet2 backbone.

Their next program, "Dancing on the Banks of Packet Creek: RealTime Distributed Surrealistic Cinema" will take place March 31st through April 2nd 2006 at multiple

ABOUT

Since 2005, Doug Fox's blog has covered the intersection of dance and the Internet. A primary focus is to help dancers and dance companies use the Internet and their dance videos for marketing, educational, creative and revenue-generation purposes.

Doug, thanks so much for the opportunity to let the world know about Another Language. I wanted to list the collaborating institutions so that credit is appropriately given.

- * Another Language and University of Utah Center for High Performance Computing
- * University of Alaska Fairbanks and the Arctic Region Supercomputing Center
- * Purdue University and the Envision Center for Data Perceptualization
- * University of Maryland, College Park
- * Boston University
- * Ryerson University, Toronto

Thanks again.

Jimmy

Correction:

Doug, I have to make one clarification in the interview. I had stated that NSF, the National Science Foundation, assisted in the formation of Internet2. I was incorrect. I2 started as a consortium of universities in partnership with the communications industry and the government to form the Abilene network.
